this work casts new light on the genre function and composition of paul s first letter to the corinthians margaret mitchell thoroughly documents her argument that first corinthians was a single letter not a combination of fragments whose aim was to persuade the corinthian christian community to become unified the rhetoric of official apologies critical essays focuses on the many challenges associated with performing a speech act on behalf of a collective and the concomitant issues of rhetorically tackling the multiple political social and philosophical issues at stake when a collective issues an official apology to a group of victims contributors address questions of whether collective remorse is possible or credible how official apologies can be evaluated who can issue apologies on behalf of whom and whether there are certain kinds of wrongdoing that simply can t be addressed in the form of an official apology collectively the book speaks to the relevance of conceptualizing official apologies more broadly as serving multiple rhetorical purposes that span ceremonial and political genres and represent a potentially powerful form of collective self reflection necessary for political and social advancement ivar vegge argues that paul in line with ancient moral philosophers letter writers and rhetoricians used idealized praise in 2 cor 1 9 and particularly in 2 cor 7 5 16 and blame or threats especially in 2 cor 10 13 to promote reconciliation between the corinthians and paul as apostle book jacket this dissertation is about the political rhetorical process of reconciliation in the wake of crimes against humanity it proposes that rhetoric is central to the process of political relationship building it conceives of rhetoric in its persuasive mood as a process of wooing an other where free deeds transform into free words in the exchange of opinion finally it explores the role of forgiveness in the reconciliation process and the need for deliberation in discerning the border between the forgivable and unforgivable as part of the process of coming into relation looks at the rhetorical dynamics of racism how in addition to social and material structures and institutions language can be a cause and facilitator of racism thoroughly discusses essentialism and racial difference theories of complicity and coherence and the theory of racism as a problem of psychiatry back cover a sociorhetorical analysis of first corinthians robert h von thaden jr s sociorhetorical analysis examines paul s construction of sexual christian bodies in first corinthians by utilizing new insights from conceptual integration blending theory about the embodied processes of meaning making paul s teaching about proper sexual behavior in this letter is best viewed as an example of early christian wisdom discourse this discourse draws upon apocalyptic and priestly cognitive frames to increase the rhetorical force of the argument reading paul s argument through the lens of rhetorical invention von thaden demonstrates that paul first attempts to show the corinthians why sexual immorality is the worst of all bodily sins before shifting rhetorical focus to explain to them how they can best avoid this infraction against the body of christ features a programmatic application of conceptual integration theory using a sociorhetorical mode of interpretation a vivid account of key aspects of conceptual integration theory and how they function in sociorhetorical interpretation a detailed application of these strategies to interpret 1 corinthians 1 4 6 12 7 7
